BURIED AT MOUNDSVILLE FRIDAY.

NEARLY THE ENTIRE POPULA-TION OF THE TOWN TURNED OUT TO DO HONOR TO THE DEAD SOLDIER-SERVICES AT THE GRAVE CONDUCTED BY COMMANDER ROBERTSON, OF THE WEST VIRGINIA DEPART-MENT OF THE GRAND ARMY.

Perhaps the largest crowd seen in Moundsville since Company B, of the West Virginia National Guard left Moundsville last spring for Charleston to volunteer in the service of their country, assembled yesterday morning on Lafayette avenue in front of the opera house and on Seventh street opposite the home of William Houston Henretta, an account of whose death was given to Thursday's Intelligencer.

When 10 o'clock, the hour announced for the funeral, arrived, the people had all gathered on the streets to pay their tast tribute of respect to the departed comrade, fellow-citizen, friend and brocomrade, fellow-citizen, friend and neother. Promptly at 10 o'clock the services at the residence, conducted by Rev. B. M. Speer, were commenced, and the procession was formed on Seventh street. Six members of the old National Guard company, which is now Company M. of the Pirst regiment. West Virginia Volunteers, of which the deceased was a member, were selected as a guard of honor, and marched next to the hearse with arms reversed, commanded by Dr. R. W. Hall.

The procession was headed by a brass band, followed by nearly one-hundred old soldiers of both the blue and the gray. The Sons of Veterans next fell into line. Following the hearse came a number of carriages bearing the relatives and near friends of the deceased.
Folowing these were the Knights of Pythias, the glass workers' union, the firemen and other organizations.

The G. A. R. took charge of the remains and headed by Department Commander Richard Robertson, of Wheeling, conducted the service at the grave in a very solemn and impressive manner. The squad of National Guards fired a salute of three volleys over the grave.

All mourn the sad ending of a young ther. Promptly at 10 o'clock the ser-fired a salute of three voilegs over the grave.

All mourn the sad ending of a young life so full of promise, and join in sympathy to the hereaved relatives. His was the first life from that community to be sacrificed on the altar of his country during the late war and that at the very threshhold to young manhood. James Henretta, the father of the deceased, desires to express his appreciation and to thank all who so kindly remembered him and his family in their bereavement, and aided in such a fitting manner to lay to rest the remains of his departed son.

SCHOOL MELANGE.

The compulsory school law passed by the last legislature, according to the decision of the attorney general, applies to the city of Wheeling as well as to the other sections of the state. Then why to the city of wheeling as well as why is it not enforced? There are several hundreds of boys and girls not in school who should be there. Why parents would permit their children to remain away from school is a mystery. The parents' duty to the child requires that it be sent to school and if a parent falls to do his or her duty the state should see to it that the duty is performed. To some this may seem hard, but is it more than simple justice? It is the birthright of every American child that it receive a good public school education, and shall we deprive them of this Godgiven right? The enforcement of this law in the city of Wheeling would do more real good than in any other one part of our state, and it is the only place where no attempt is made to enforce it. Some one will have to answer for this some day. We hope our next legislature will so amend the law so that there can be no mistaking its application.

Many inquries come to the writer concerning the lecture course on American history proposed to be given by Dr.
J. P. Gordy some time during the fall J. P. Gordy some time during the fall and winter months. To one and all we give this reply: Dr. Gordy will give a series of ten lectures at such times and places as are agreed upon by the class and himself providing a class numbering 100 or more is secured. To each member of the class he will present a copy of the first volume of his book. If the class numbers 100 it will cost each member 35 50. If 150 members are Recurred it will cost each $2 55. As the price of the book is $1 50, it will surely give the lectures at a very reasonable As the doctor wishes to kn price. As the doctor wishes to know clust as soon as possible, all who wish to swall themselves of this opportunity please notify the principal of Ritchie to that effect, as the matter is left in his hands. About fifty teachers and others have signified their intention of becoming members already. It seems to the writer that Wheeling and the surrounding towns ought to be able to raise a class of at least 200 members instead of 100, the lowest number proposed. There will be no lectures unless 100 members are secured.

The many friends of Prof. J. McHenr; Jones will be pleased to hear of his promotion to the presidency of the Colored Institute at Farm, West Virginia. The regents of the school are to be congratulated on securing the services of such an able man to fill the important position. The school under his management cannot fall to be a success. Prof. Jones is a cultured gentleman and a scholar in the truest cense. Under his management, Lincoln school has become better and better until it is second to none of its kind in the entire country. To say that it compares favorably with the other ward schools in the city is not detracting one lota from them, but is merely complimenting the great work accomplished by Prof. Jones. We wish him great success in his new field of labor. While all Join in congratulations, at the same time all are sorry to have the professor leave our city. He bears with him the well wishes of all who know him, and everybody in Wheeling knows him. Jones will be pleased to hear of his pro

The custom in force of devoting a part, at least, of Friday afternoon to literary exercises is surely a commendable one. Many parents think these exercises are of no account, and allow their children to remain at home. This is a great mistake. These exercises ought to be the most pleasant of the week, and they will be if properly conducted. There is no hour of the entire week of half the real practical benefit to the pupil if he prepares himself as he should do. Parents ought to encourage their children to take an interest in these exercises. Do not take the child's word as to what they are, but come and see for yourselves.

We have time and again in these notes called attention to the fact that the great object of our schools is to make men and women of our boys and girls, but we wish to call attention also to the fact that in order that the boy or the girl be led in the way to become a man or a woman he or she must attend school regularly. The school of itself cannot do the work. The teacher cannot do it, where she has the pupil under her charge as nearly all of the time as possible. The writer is free to say that those pupils who are the most regular in attendance are the ones that are bidding fair to become a credit to the school when they become men and women. It is so everywhere. We need more parental restraint and the more hearty cooperation of parent and teacher. Parents, come to the school now and then and see how your children are taught, and you have the word of one that knows whereof he speaks, when he says it, you will be well repaid for your trouble.

Among the many ways of teaching patriotism to our pupils, the singing of patriotic songs holds a prominent place and no song is better liked by the boyand girls of the Wheeling schools than the one entitled "The Stars and Stripes that I Love." This may be from the fact that it was written by our own William M. Clemans. Be this us it may, it has a patriotic ring about it that few songs have. It ought to be sung by every boy and girl in every school, public or private, in the United States of America. THE PEDAGOGUE.

AMUSEMENTS.

The farce to be enacted at the Opera House next Thursday evening, is new in English. The original is the French of Gondinet and Bisson, and it has had its time in Paris. The version which is used, is from the pen of H. A. Du Souchet, who astonished and amused us with "Ms Friend From India." The play is "The Man From Mexico," and it was initially brought out in this country at Hoyt's Theatre, New York, last year, where its success was instant and complete. Willie Collier, who will be seen in the production in this city, has, it is claimed, made unquestionably the hit of his career in the part of Benjamin Fizzhugh, who is "The Man From Mexico," Roderick Majors, a friend of Fitzhugh's, and a well known type of character, undertakes to help his friend out of their difficulties, but his efforts only to involve them in worse predicaplay is "The Man From Mexico," and it

Like the farcial stage stories bearing the trade-mark of Bisson, this one puts forward a husband and wife who deceive each other as to their social habits and both go surreptitiously to a resort upon which the police make a raid. One act is devoted to the scenes of the husband's discomfiture in the penitentiary. The company supporting Willie Collier in "The Man From Mexico," were exlected by Managers Smyth and Rice, and ere said to be a very promising set of actors, having made an emphatic success with Mr. Collier in all the larger cities of the country. "CUBA LIBRE."

"Cuba Libre" was the offering of the Bleels to patrons of the Grand last night, and if was in many respects the most pleasing production of the week. The action hinges on incidents in the late Spanish-American war, and there are many patriotic sections speches and patriotic situations. There is an abundance of hright comedy. The play was splendidly cast. This afternoon's till will be "Fanchon the Cricket." Margie Mitchell's great success. The engagement will close to-night, with the sensational comedy drams. "TELL ME WHAT YOU EAT AND I'LL TELL YOU WHAT YOU ARE."

The human ostrich. You've seen him probably, in the booth at the fair or circus or on the platform of the dime museus. He has toughened his stomach to the comsistency of leather, and lunches on broken bottles, tacks or ten-penny nails with seeming impunity. He doesn't live long, of course, for he sacrifices iffe to omn't a laxy livelihood.

Finally I saw an advertisement in one of the country papers that for twenty-one one-cent stamps Dr. Pierce would send one of his Common Sense Medical Advisers.' So I sent and got one-and began to read concerning diseases like my own. After consulting the doctor himself, I purchased at my nearest drugs after a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and a bottle of his Piesannt Pelleta. This was in 1887 and now I am happy to say that I am in the enjoyment of good health, which I attribute to Dr. R. V. Pierce. I am so glad of my health that I cannot say too much. I first return my sincere thanks to Almighty God and then to Doctor Pierce."

The above is only a specimen case ta-

You would be amazed, perhaps, to be id that you were something like the the at random from thousands.

the human ostrich is an example of destrosity. The man who plays the plat of the human ostrich is an example of depraved appetite in its most extreme and exaggerated form. The depraved appetite of the average candidate for dyspepsia does not go farther than hot bread and biscuit, rich pastries, highly seasoned dishes, and excessively greasy foods. Add to this improper cooking, haste in meating, and lack of proper rest after a meal, and you have a condition very likely to result in disease and suffering. Let it be remembered that the sole object of food is nutrition; nutrition not for the body as a whole only, but nutrition for the varying needs of the separate parts of the body; for the muscles, the nerves, the brain, the blood. When the stomach is in a state of healthy activity, Nature, by her remarkable processes, takes the food you supply, and distributes its starches and sugars, its saits and phosphates according to the needs of the separate organs of the body. When the stomach is not in a state of healthy activity. Nature does her best, but the various dependent organs of the body are put on short rations. There is not nourishment enough to supply them properly.

WHAT HAPPENS THEN? properly. WHAT HAPPENS THEN?

WHAT HAPPENS THEN?

A weakened stomach. A stomach incapable of performing its functions fully. The liver and blood-making glands work imperfectly. The natural result is that the food is imperfectly digested and only parily assimilated and the channels of life are choked and stopped by waste and putrescent matter. Some people know where the trouble is. They locate it in the stomach, because they have pain there after eating an irregular craving for food, or an appetite that eating does not satisfy. There is heaviness after a meal, a feeling of unduefulness. It is hard to breathe, there is such a stuffy feeling about the chest. There may be palpitation or irregular action of the heart and the sufferer imagines he has heart disease. Perhaps the stomach sours, and there are bitter risings, and belchings. These symptoms mark various forms and stages of "weak stomneth." They will not all be present in every case or in the earlier stages of the disease. Any one of these symptoms locates the trouble in the stomach and the digestive and nutritive functions, which are disturbed.

Quite often there is no apparent connection between the stomach and the symptoms of the disease. The victim thinks it "liver trouble," heart failure, or lung disease. There is a dull pain, perhaps in the back or side. The spine aches, sometimes "in spots" and sometimes through its whole length. There may be a sharp stitch or pain occasion-ally. Exercise makes the limbs tremble and the heart beat violently. Perhaps to some of these symptoms there is added an obstrate, stubborn cough.

WHAT IS THE MATTER NOW?

It is another case of weak stomach.

WHAT IS THE MATTER NOW?

It is another case of weak stomach But, that is not where the pain is. Very likely not. But that is where the tro bie is. The stomach has not been able to properly feed the organs dependent upon it. They are starving, they are weak, and they show their weakness in the aches and pains that afflict the var the sames and pants that shirt in the source of the body. What will set the stomach right? There is one remede practically infallible in its results and that one remede is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures becaus it is made to cure just the conditions o the stomach which give rise to disease A COMMON SENSE VIEW.

If so many diseases begin in the stomach and nutritive system, why should not some one remedy be compounded, which by healing the stomach would necessarily cure the diseases of the organs dependent on it? This was the great question which Dr. R. V. Pierce set himself to answer. Then fol-

Pierce set himself to answer. Then followed a period of profound study of the value of alterative and tonic medicines.

The result was Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a medicine for the stomach, and the whole digestive and nutritive system. The soundness of Dr. Pierce's original theory, that diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach, has been proved in thousands of cases, where one or several of the chief organs of the body were involved in wasting diseases, and an entire cure has been wrought by the use of the "Golden Medical Discovery."

C. L. Mundell, of Pinegrove, Gallia Co.,
Ohio. He writes: "I suffered from a

WHY IS IT SO? In view of the foregoing facts it is easy to explain why the "Golden Medical Discovery" is the best bloodpurifying medicine. The stomach supplies the ing medicine. The stomach supplies the blood. Draw pure water into a foul cup and if you drink it you drink foul water. No matter how pure the food, if the stomach is foul you will have foul blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cleanses the blood by cleaning the stomach, invigorating the liver and setting the blood making glands atwork. ork. Weak lungs are cured on the same Weak lungs are cured on the same principle. Weak lungs are inseparable from a weak stomach. A weak stomach does not always mean weak lungs, but weak lungs always means a weak stomach. The weak stomach means lack of sufficient nutrition, or the incapacity of the stomach to digrest the food and distirbute the nutriment to repair the waste and loss of the body. The whole medical profession recognizes this fact. Their great prescription for weak lungs and consumption is a fattening food, condensed and assimilable—which takes condensed and assimilable—which takes the form of cod liver oil, either in all its condensed and assimination—which cases the form of cod liver oil, either in all its original nastiness, or with its offensiveness modified in some emusive preparation. The theory is sound enough. What the body needs is nourishment. If you could nourish the body up to the point of aggression against disease it would protect tiself. Somehow cod liver oil and its preparations never seem to get as far as the weak lungs. They fall because it is the stomach that needs healing. Let the lungs alone. If you can cure the stomach invigorate the liver and est the blood making glands to manufacturing, and start the current of rich, red blood, throughout the system, Nature will take care that it does its work of building up the body. That is the basis of Dr. Pierce's cure for weak lungs, the condition which by neglect or bad treatment becomes consumption.

HOW IT WORKS.

How does the treatment work in prac-

How does the treatment work in practice? Mr. Noel W. Orvin, of Langley Aiken Co., S. C., finds that it worked first rate in his case. He says:

"I was taken sick in July last year, and was not able to do any kind of work until November. I had been work until November. I had been coughing up small hard lumps for about a year before I was taken down. I then called on a doctor, who attended me for two months, and eaid that one-half of my left lung was gone, and advised me to leave my home (Charleston, S. C.), and go to the country, but did not say what sort of disease I had. I thought it was consumption, and wrote to you for advice; I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has done me more good than all the other medicines I have ever taken."

The doctor didn't say what was the matter. But Mr. Orvin "thought it was consumption." No wonder he thought so, when the doctor told him one-half of one lung was gone. But it does not matter what the disease is called, the matter what the disease is called, the

of one lung was gone. But it does not matter what the disease is called, the fact remains that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of such cases—cases where thousands of such cases—cases where there were night-sweats, hacking cough, emaclation, beetle flush, labored breathing and great weakness. Call the disease what you please, "Golden Medical Discovery" cures ninety-eight out of every hundred such cases. These statements have a two-fold claim on your attention if you are a sufferer from weak stomach, weak lungs, stubborn, lingering cough, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, or any of these kindred forms of disease which, when neglected or improperly treated, lead to consumption.

WILL NOT INERHIATE.

WILL NOT INEBRIATE.

There is one important feature about "Golden Medical Discovery," which cannot be too strongly emphasized. It contains no alcohol, or whiskey, no opium or narcotics, neither sugar nor opum or narouca, neither sugar nor syrup which so often disagrees with the weak dyspeptic stomach. Without any of these things it preserves its medicinal qualities perfectly and in any climate. It does not create a craying for injurious stimulants or naroules.

DON'T BE DECEIVED.

If you are convinced that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is what you need, do not allow any designing dealer need, do not allow any designing dealer to palm off a substitute on you under the specious plea that it is "just as good." If he has no respect for your judgment show him that you have. Any dealer can obtain this great standard remedy for you fou insist upon it. It affords him a fair profit. It is his business to supply what you ask for, and not to urge some substitute on you for issi i dost my results anogether. I went to one of the best dectors in the state and he said I had heart, stomach, liver and kidney trouble. His treatment did me no good. I tried different kinds of patent medicines, but got worse all the time; was so weak that I could not walk the sake of making a larger profit. Your health is of vastly more consequence than his profit. Let any substituting dealer understand that.

There are people everywhere who are in ill-health. Medicine has not helped them. They are out of heart and discouraged Dr. Plerce invites such to write to him, freely and fully. After careful consideration of the case a reply is quickly made containing such instructions and fatherly advice as will prove of the greatest benefit. There is no charge for this consultation by letter.

The men back of the teams representing the circuit have stood together as one man; they have gone down in their pookets time and again when dissolution seemed inevitable. Each time has the difficulty been surmounted, and there is no doubt now that the fast little league will finish the season. Furthermore, it will again be in the field next year stronger than ever.

If to one man more than another credit should be given for the splendid showing of the league, that person is President Charles B. Power. That enterprising gentleman, who has held the executive chair since the organization of the league in 1896, has this season taken a greater interest in the affairs of the circuit than ever before, and largely through his efforts has its continued existence been made possible. He has proven a most excellent official, and that he will again guard the destiny of the ieague in 1896 has this season taken a greater interest in the affairs of the circuit than ever before, and largely through his efforts has its continued existence been made possible. He has proven a most excellent official, and that he will again guard the destiny of the ieague in 1896 has foregone conclusion.

league in 1899 is a foregone conclusion. The Inter-state League has perhaps furnished as large a number of recruits for the major organization as any minor league in the country, and their showing in fast company but demonstrates that with the exception of the Western and Eastern it is perhaps the speedlest youngster in the country. Flick, Platt and Altrock are holding their own in the hig league, and many others will break in next season. Pitcher Rosebrough, of Dayton, goes to Plitsburgh, Outfielder Hartzeil and infielder Taylor, of Grand Rapids, to Louisville, while Outfielder Parrell, of Sprinsfield, Pitcher Smith of New Castle, Outfielder Bescher, of Mansfield, Pitcher Knepper and Catcher Schrecongost, of Youngstown, and Pitcher Siret, of Dayton, are all mentioned as major league possibilities. All are remarkably clever youngsters and bear the earmarks of sure enough comers. National League managers are keeping close tab on the Inter-state, which is splendid evidence of its strength and likewise its value as a training ground for promising players. The bennant race in the Inter-state League has this season proved the most interesting since its inception, Dayton winning from Toledo by a narrow margin.

FOOT BALL

It is probable that the W. A. C. may open its season on October 8, instead of a week later as originally intended. A game on that date will likely be played with Franklin college, at New Athena with Franklin college, as New Albers but should this game flicker, the regular team will line up against a scrub team for a practice game on the Island. On October 15 the season will be opposed on the home grounds with Steubenville. New Castle is anxious for a game hers and may be accommodated. The schelle will hardly be arranged for two weeks in all its entirety.

Arthur McFarland left yesterday to join the Greensburg team. "Tiger" is Mac's nickname in the Pennsylvania town, and he is a deserved favorist
